OWASIPPE WINTER CAMP

December 27, 1948 to January 2, 1949

Get out those skates -- check your sleds -- round up a toboggan -- the 'ole toboggan slide at Big Blue Lake is all set. Look for those ear muffs -- get out that heavy shirt -- round up high top boots -- check that Scout Handbook for the time is at hand for Owaspippe's great Winter Camp and you are invited.

This year the camp is limited to 60 Scouts who are at least 15 years of age, First Class Scouts or better, and have had at least one season of summer camp. The first 60 Scouts go.

Get ready for real adventure in winter camping. A new type of winter camp is planned for you!

OWASIPPE WINTER CAMP

December 27, 1949

to

January 2, 1950

Yes sir, Gang, it's time again to think about Winter Camp on Big Blue Lake at Owaspippe. Camp Administrator tells us the 'ole toboggan slide is all set. There's a snap and a crackle in the air getting ready for a rugged winter at Owaspippe. Be looking forward to seeing you and your friend among the crowd that will be there.

This year the camp is limited to 50 Scouts who are at least 14 years of age, First Class Scouts or better. The first 50 Scouts go!

We don't like to have to crowd fellows into the limited number of buildings available what with heavy woolen shirts, jackets, packs, etc., -- mighty little space to go around.

Get ready for a real adventure. Get your reservation in as early as possible.

LEAVE:

Via bus at 8:00 A.M., Tuesday, December 27, 1949, from 63rd and Stony Island Avenue "L" Terminal, arriving at Owaspippe Winter Camp at approximately 4:00 P.M. the same day. You must furnish your own lunch for the trip up -- we will furnish you a lunch for your return trip to Chicago.

RETURN:

Via bus at 9:00 A.M., Monday, January 2, 1950, arriving in Chicago between 4:00 and 6:00 P.M. that day. (We have to allow for possible bad weather.)

COST:

$11.00 for the seven days plus $7.00 round trip transportation -- total of $18.00. Reservation fee of $5.00 is required with application -- which is not refundable -- so be sure you can go to camp before paying the fee.

HEALTH
EXAMINATION:

This examination is required to assure the camp of a strong physical condition of the Scout to withstand extreme cold and vigorous outdoor sports. The examination is required only once -- with the Scout's application -- even though considerable time may elapse prior to going to camp -- our Camp Doctor will recheck upon arrival.
